Juliet's cousin Tybalt meets Romeo.

TYBALT: May I have a word with you?

ROMEO: Noble Tybalt, I hear you.

TYBALT: I found out that you tried to seduce my cousin Juliet at the Capulet's party.

ROMEO: No ill intentions hide behind my actions.

TYBALT: Repulsive Montague, you are not even near the class of a Capulet lady.

ROMEO: You judge me too quickly.

TYBALT: Quickly will I see your blood spill on the ground.

ROMEO: My blood is closer to you than you can imagine.

TYBALT: Stop speaking and defend yourself.

ROMEO: *The love I bear for you makes me tell you only one thing:
I am not an enemy, so go in peace.*

TYBALT: The love I bear for you makes me tell you only one thing: You are a villain. Draw!

ROMEO: *Tybalt, the reason that I have to love you excuses the rage to such a greeting:
villain am I none: Therefore farewell; I see you know me not.*

TYBALT: *Boy, this shall not excuse the injuries that you have done to me;
therefore turn and draw.*

ROMEO: I protest. I never injured you, but I love you better than you can imagine, so until you know the reason for my love, good Capulet, which name I tender as dearly as my own, be satisfied.

TYBALT: I will not be satisfied. Draw!

ROMEO: No Tybalt, I shall not fight you.

TYBALT: You are a coward.

ROMEO: I choose to love you as a brother.

TYBALT: You insult the Capulet name. Now, draw!

ROMEO: Do not force me to duel with you, Tybalt. I wish you no harm.

TYBALT: Harm has come upon you for your cowardice. You will be slain like a dog.

ROMEO: I beg you, go in peace.

TYBALT: I shall not go until your life has ended. Montague scum!

ROMEO: O, I am fortune's fool!
